Art Unit: 1631

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-14, 16, and 20, drawn to polynucleotides, recombinant viruses, host cells, and methods for making proteins, classified in class 536, subclass 23.5 and class 435, subclasses 320.1, 69.1, and 325.
- II. Claim 15, drawn to methods of treatment using nucleic acids, classified in class 514, subclass 44.
- III. Claim 17, drawn to polypeptides, classified in class 530, subclasses 350 and 351.
- IV. Claim 18, drawn to antibodies, classified in class 530, subclass 387.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons. The polynucleotides, recombinant viruses, and host cells of Group I are materially different from, and are therefore independent and distinct from, the polypeptides of Group III and the antibodies of Group IV. The methods of Groups I and II may be practiced independently of one another. The methods of Group I are not needed to make the polypeptides of Group III, which polypeptides may be chemically synthesized or isolated from naturally occurring sources. The methods of Group I are not needed to make the antibodies of Group IV. The polynucleotides, recombinant viruses, and host cells of Group I have uses other than those of Group II. For example, they may be used in affinity chromatography and/or used to produce reagents for use in affinity chromatography. The methods of Group II are not needed to produce the polypeptides of Group III or the antibodies of Group IV. The polypeptides of Group III are materially different from, and are therefore independent and distinct from the antibodies of Group IV.

Claim 19 is ungrouped because it depends from itself.

Claims 1-16 are drawn to nucleotides, nucleotide constructs, and/or methods requiring the use of nucleotides or nucleotide constructs that contain more than ten individual, independent, and distinct nucleotide sequences in alternative form. Accordingly, these claims are subject to restriction under 35 U.S.C. § 121 as outlined in 1192 O.G. 68 (November 19, 1996). This notice permits the examination of from one to ten independent and distinct nucleotide sequences in a single application based upon USPTO resources.

Art Unit: 1631

Should applicant s elect a Group that claims or mentions more than one polynucleotide sequence, applicants are required to select no more than ONE of the individual sequences for examination on the merits. The search of the no more than ONE selected sequences may include the complements of the selected sequences and, where appropriate, may include subsequences within the selected sequences (e.g., oligomeric probes and/or primers).

Claim 17, 18, and 20 are drawn to large numbers of polypeptides or mention or require the use of large numbers of polypeptides. Should applicants elect a Group that claims or mentions more than one polypeptide sequence, applicants are further required to elect one polypeptide sequence within the elected Group for examination on the merits.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their different classification and recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

To search any two groups as outlined above would create an undue burden for the U.S. PTO because the searches of the non-patent literature are not only non-overlapping to any appreciable extent, but are also divergent in nature.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
